I don't know what else to do. There is a new house behind us. I hate being a complainer, I like to stay in my own lane completely! But my bedroom window and my 3 young childrens bedroom window faces our back yard. Ever since our neighbor moved in, every weekend, some week days.... He has a woman back there having sexual relations very loud. At first I was like omg these trashy ppl. We have lights and cameras that turn in because of the rise in car break ins. One time you could hear her screaming, hahaha omg your neighbors motion light went on then she started moaning for a solid 30 minutes. I haven't approached them bc I've seen too many crazy 20/20s where lives get destroyed. If this guy is this uncouth and shameless, what else is he capable of? He has a kids play set out there, a blow up hot tub, no fence, and he's doing this from like 2am - 5:30 weekly! I've contacted the code enforcement manager Barbara Grossman and left a vm. But does anyone have any non confrontational advice? My children wake me up in the middle of the night saying "mommy that lady is screaming in the backyard again." Last night my son woke me up saying he was having a bad dream and then he heard "the woman in the backyard moaning and screaming."

They are doing this outside in the backyard where people can see them since no fence? If they are then that can be considered indecent exposure. You definitely need to say something but other than going straight to them to discuss it, I am not sure wha... See more

Tracy Ann YEP! Right out there! No fence, directly, straight line from my little girls window.

Oh hope. Call the police next time it is happening. Tell them neighbors are screaming and appear to be having sex and no fence and your children saw it happen and you are witnessing it happening right now. That is indecent exposure and noise ordinance at that time.

Pull the blinds down, and get white noise machines for the kids rooms. I think they deserve an award for 3 1/2 hours. The only way I'm going for 3 1/2 hours. Is if 3 hours and 15 minutes of it. Is begging. Lol

Pedro Rivera and our noise ordinance is 6pm to 7am. The whole neighborhood has overlooked a lot. There's a guy down the road who partied till 11/12 on holidays. None of us care because even that can be understood sometimes. But this situation is just insane.

My recommendation is to stop beating around the bush. Either call the cops or say something. Subliminal messages don't work. Facebook posts to keep saying why you don't want to say something isn't doing anything for you either.
