Order on Hearing

THIS CAUSE has come before the Court upon the set CMC. The goal of that hearing seemed to pivot around two main issues: 1. whether the case was set for 3 or 4 weeks for trial; 2. whether that trial was set for July or September of 2024. Should there be any other determinations that the Court was to make the parties can alert the Court via email if they consent- if not by motion. The Court being fully advised in the premises, finds, orders and adjudges as follows:

The Court advised the parties that it would seek any relevant information that would affect these determinations. That endeavor yielded only vague responses from court administration (mainly regarding senior judge availability) so the Court remains predictably unhelpful. The Court will remain undeterred and continue making proper arrangements.

In any event, the trial may be noticed for 4 weeks as discussed at the CMC in the month of September 2024.¹ The parties can notice CMC, maybe every third month if that is helpful. Otherwise, the Court will be available to hear pending motions as they come.

DONE AND ORDERED in chambers, in Flagler County, Florida, on 13 day of June, 2023.

¹ The summer months have proven to be difficult to deal with special set trials of this duration.
